

27-May-09

New Club 3D website going live

It's been a long time coming but we are very excited to have launched our new website. We have worked several months to create a site that is not only visually appealing, but functional too. Some of our new features include the completely new product pages which offer more information to our users. Soon we will be launching a newsletter informing you all about our upcoming products.

The website has been redesigned and reorganized to better help users to find the information they are looking for. All current information from the old website has been transferred to the new one. With the new navigation system and search engine, users should have no difficulty in finding information at its new location.

We will invest in further developments of the website and will have many more improvements over the next few weeks. Essential to this process is feedback from users about the new site and what they want on the site in the future. Should you have any questions or feedback please feel free to contact us by using our contact form (Link).